كم هو وحيد وبائس ذلك الذي يختبئ في قبو، في قبو روحه، ذلك الذي لم يتكيف يوماً مع واقع ولا أستطاع أن Philosophy يعرف كيف يعيش مع الناس، كان يمل أسرع مما كان يفقد فيه حاسة الثقة بالنفس، كان مجروحاً، ثم غداً أتما، ثم عصبياً، هائجاً، ناقماً على كل شيء، تسلل داء الوحدة والعزلة إلى روحه، كان أشبه بمن أستفاق في سجن، كان يرى أن الحياة سجن سخيطة، سجن مليء بأناس فوضويون، بقساة القلوب، ظل بطلنا في قبوه لمدة عشرين عاماً، منعزلاً عن الحياة والبشر، أصبح يرى الواقع مثل كومة هباء، لم يجبر نفسه يوماً فعل ما يجعله يعتقد خلاف ذلك، ما من أمر أجبره على الخروج من ذلك القبو العفن، بالوحدة والخطايا، والتأنيب، وكما عبر نابكوف مرةً: لقد أخذت الوحدة تفسدني، وأخذت أحتاج إلى من يُلازمني ويعتني بي، وأصبح قلبي مر بطل قبونا - إن شئنا أن نسميه - بمرحلة Notes from underground litcharts. جهازاً هستيرياً لا يوثق به الإنسحاب، ثم التكور على الذات، ثم النقمة على المجتمع، ثم الغضب، ثم التعب، وبعد ذلك الهذيان في الكتابة، كان شريراً بحق، لاذعاً، غير عابئ حتى بكرامته، أصبح يلقي بالخطب والمواعظ، تعب من إنتقاد ذاته، يعلم أنه تصرف في مرات عديدة ببلاهة، يلتقي بأصدقاء قداماء، لا يروونه سوى حشرة تداس، وفي أفضل الحالات تحول إلى موضع للسخرية في جلسة خمر، يا إلهي كم يفقد الإنسان نفسه حين لا يعود يتعرف على واقعه، يصبح ضحلاً، يُسمى أتفه التفاصيل التي يعملها إنتصاراً، يضخم من ذاته ثم ينكمش، فيتحطم في نهاية المطاف، ثم يلتقي بمن هو أدنى منه، فالويل لذلك الأدنى، الذي سيصب عليه جام غضبه ومواعظه الأخلاقية ورؤيته للإنسان الفاضل، من هو؟ مجرد هارب يبحث عن أدنى منه، مجرد خائف من مواجهة ذاته، القبو عبارة عن أرض يرقد فيها بطلنا بلا حياة، ولكنه أصبح يعرف كيف يحكي ويعبر عن ذاته أيما تعبير، أصبح موقناً بأن لا شيء أفضل من أن يحكي ويسخر ويفرق الورق بخموله النفسي ولا-واقعيته، مرارة حياته هو، صار يندب ماضية، وواقعه والمجتمع المادي الجامد الذي يعيش فيه، صار يعي أن حياته قد أنتهت في ذلك القبو المعتم، حياته، شروده، غموضه تجاه الأشياء، أحلامه التي لم تكن يوماً هذه الرواية Notes from underground hardback. سوى أحلاماً بسيطة، صارت توخزه، تجعله غاضباً على الدوام ربما تكون من أعمق ما كتب دوستويفسكي في مجال النفس البشرية وإزالة الموانع أمام التعرف على روح الإنسان الداخلية بمسحة شديدة من السوداوية، والرؤى المحطمة، والأسلوب اللاذع والتهكمي من مصير الإنسان وحياته وبواعثه، تحكي عن الهروب البشع أمام الحضارة والمادة، أمام المجتمع والواقع، إما أن ينكمش الإنسان أو يتمادى في واقعيته، لا حل آخر، يظهر دوستويفسكي متعصباً، غاضباً من مجتمعه، غير أبهاً لسخرية الآخرين، ولا متطلعاً لترف الاعجابات، رواية صريحة، عميقة، نكرني بطل هذه الرواية Notes from underground existentialism. مدهشة، ومرعبة أيضاً في تحليلها وواقعيته ببطل رواية (الليالي البيضاء)، اللذين يتجسدان بلا أسم ولا أوصاف، يخرجان من جحريهما نحو فضاء لا يعرفانه، يتخبطان في الواقع، يحكيان مثل سانجين، خرجا من كتاب وظلا يثرثران، هناك ربط عجيب بين الروائيتين، ومشاعر متشابهة لدى قراءة كليهما، هل يمكن أن يكون الشخص ذاته، راودتني هذه الأفكار فعلاً، هل هذا هو مصير الذي كتبه دوستويفسكي لصاحبنا في رواية (الليالي البيضاء)، هل وصل به الحال أن يرمي بطله في حفرة مثل هذا القبو وهو يشاهده يغضب ويثور، ويتخبط، لا أستبعد ذلك خصوصاً وأن كلاهما كان حالماً، حساساً، غريب الأطوار، وحيدين مثل سلحفاة، عاطفيين مثل أبطال الحكايات الغابرة، ربما تكون مذكرات القبو هذه هي الجزء التالي لحكاية العاشق، العاشق المخرب، الذي خسر الحب، خسر حياته، واقعه، وظل يكتب بفعل الفساد الروحي والأخلاقي الذي أعاني Notes from underground author. يكتب، يكتب مثل من يحلم بالنجاة منه، ويفعل الوقاحة الصلفة التي أنصف بها، ويفعل عدم تعودي على الحياة المُعاشة، ويفعل تراكم الغيظ والحقد اللذين نميتهما في Fiction. قبوي.

Oh there he is sitting by himself in a dark corner dead broke after a high-stakes cards game giving you the unsettling intense heavy glare that easily penetrates right into the darkest best-guarded secrets of your soul the glare that clearly says 'been there done that been repulsed by what

I saw. Philosophy Notes from underground weather But I don't need to get him to know the greatness when I see it to respect his sharp writing his keenly observant eye that does not let anything slip away and his scarily clear perceptions of people and the layers in which they dress up their otherwise petty and pathetic selves. Books similar to notes from the underground Let me jot down just a few of the epithets that came pouring into my head with every page I read: petty bitter miserly resentful selfish pitiful entitled cruel deeply unpleasant and frankly miserable.

Philosophy Notes from underground dog The person who in the confines of his little mind hides a true despot but gets his sense of self-worth by assuming that everyone else is beneath his miserable but clearly enlightened and misunderstood self - despite the world pointing to the contrary. Dostoevsky notes from underground pdf The person who'd quietly spit into your bowl if you haven't offered to share it with him - and then will internally torment himself for years over the act feeling that the act of torment is enough to elevate him out of the mud. Fiction Notes from underground book And this disturbing part is exactly what makes me from time to time abandon the fun bits of the Russian literature party and instead join Fyodor Mikhailovich in his dark gloomy corner for a minute or so. Notes from underground summary I have should italicized in that first sentence for a reason: If you don't give yourself time to think -- if just skim through the book quickly -- then you won't get anything out of it. Notes from underground book Those of you who read the book will probably disagree with some of them and trust me I don't claim to be good with literary analysis so you could probably convince me against some... after all they're just thoughts. Notes from Underground philosophy vs And don't feel like you need to read them; maybe one or two to get the main thinkin' point: - The narrator is an angry man with strongly violent speech reveries and threats. Notes from underground hardback Is he or is he not physically dangerous?- What a shame it is that someone who has the capability of making great impact -- such as this man -- ends up being so insignificant. Notes from underground antihero In regards to making difficult decisions Yogi Berra once said When you come to the fork in the road take it! Sometimes most -- or even all -- of the options available are better than not taking any or changing your mind midway through. Philosophy Notes from underground printing Our narrator even wavered or made stupid decisions when faced with simple situations - common sense scenarios that 99% of the population would respond to in a better fashion than the ridiculous silly ways that he did. Notes from the underground full book How can such a smart man be such a poor decision maker? - I wonder how successful would he would be if his chemical imbalance were fixed (I guess it would have to be through pills) and he saw a good shrink. Notes from underground by fyodor dostoyevsky Yet he shows dashes of deep understanding of it and so you think he can't be right about that (himself not being able to love)... but wouldn't he know? Is he bullshitting? Maybe he's serious but just wrong about himself: perhaps he's capable of love but hasn't yet perhaps because nobody has ever loved him. Algebra notes from the underground pdf Could he have opened his heart to the innocent whore that he meets? Given their compliments in character could they have provided one another with support understanding and love had he just given it a chance? Or perhaps he doesn't need those things -- ultimately he retreats from such opportunities and returns to his spite. Notes from underground summary Are things like support human understanding and love things that we all need? Maybe if he would just open up once he would get the love he needs and change into a much better person in all aspects of his life. Books like notes from underground Perhaps this one quote sums up a large portion of his problem: Instead of taking life by the horns and making the most of it he's bitter and blames other people for his problems. Notes from underground existentialism - If the narrator didn't live in such poverty could he have gotten himself out of his figurative hole? If he had the basic necessities would he have then had the level of conformability needed to start improving himself? If so would he he then chose to improve himself? - He states "the most intense pleasures occur in despair" Is he actually enjoying his situation? Oh man there are just so many ways to look at that.... Notes from Underground fictional Does he still behave ridiculously? We don't have a strong idea of what his philosophies were 16 years ago (during part 2) and we don't know what his behavior was like at the time part 1 was written (at his current age of 40). Notes from underground hardback " Is his problem that he's too introspective? Is his heavily introspective nature a reason he's such a mess? Perhaps his problem is that he's just too analytical too much of a thinker too caught inside his own head. Notes from underground by fyodor dostoyevsky Perhaps he's not in touch with his feelings enough and that by avoiding them when they inevitably come out (to live is to feel) they are so foreign to him that he doesn't know how to deal with them. Notes from Underground psychology degree A great hero wouldn't necessarily be the opposite of this guy... or would he? And what constitutes a hero anyway? And so you see after reading this I feel a bit like the narrator: conflicting contrary and paradoxical thoughts running in different directions often without conclusions. Notes from underground and other stories this is not a character that it is healthy to relate to is it?? he is a scotch more pathetic than me and more articulate but his pettinesses are mine; his misanthropy is mine his contradictions and weaknesses. Notes from underground online come to my blog! Fiction Psychology Philosophy Bravo Dostoyevsky! This is the perfect absolutely accurate and universal portrait of the insecure self-conscious egomaniac - pitiful and dangerous on a negative quixotic rampage against himself society and the laws of nature he despises but cannot change. Notes from underground pdf download With modern technology they have conquered the virtual world spewing out their self-pity and hatred in long inconsistent frustrated tirades contradicting themselves at each moment without thinking. Notes from underground hardback "I am this or that ... or no wait I was lying ... I am that or the other... I am going to show them all slap them in the face ..." Dostoyevsky's misfit is far more eloquent than his modern alter egos quite similar to authors like August Strindberg darkly misanthropic and full of self-loathing but with a sharp intellect and deep understanding of the world of the 19th century which is undergoing deep and irreversible change. Notes from underground hardback The man from the underground is seriously shaken by the new scientific era which he intellectually recognises but hates because it leaves it to his own responsibility to define meaning in life. Notes from the underground epub The new individual initiative which is required for success in the modern world is scary and diametrically opposed to the old structure which gave him an unshakable place and aim: "What stone wall? Why of course the laws of nature the deductions of natural science mathematics. Fiction Notes from underground weather " It would take Orwellian dictatorship to put $2+2=4$ in doubt again but the man in the underground doesn't as a rule stick to his own advice and he curses and rants against the laws he cannot change claiming that will give him a distinctive identity: "He will launch a curse upon the world and as only man can curse (it is his privilege the primary distinction between him and other animals) maybe by his curse alone he will attain his object - that is convince himself that he is a man and not a piano-key!" He might of course just have proven that he is a piano-key that is capable of cursing and he knows about the inconsistencies of his arguments. Books like notes from underground He craves a distinguished position in society but only manages to show superiority by humiliating and despising the company he seeks and by subsequently falling into passionate remorse and emotional crisis. Notes from Underground fiction vs While seeing her helpless situation her position as a victim of the patriarchal sexually repressed and morally bigoted society he still abhors the fact that she has been "used" like an object by other men and he can't consider her a subject an individual a human with a future anymore once she has been sexually active with other men. Notes from underground hardback This is so common so universal so deeply felt in most sexually repressive patriarchal societies: men force women to be sexually dependent either within marriage or outside it and then they blame them for not being pure anymore. Notes from underground existentialism Our protagonist can't obviously like so many other young men brought up in a confused state of mind with pride and honour as a guideline and sexual repression and misogyny taught from early childhood caught in a modern world that offers too many different lifestyles for them to be able to choose and too few dogmatic guidelines to stick to. Notes from Underground psychology book Being instinctively egomaniac their antisocial behaviour falls flat in a group and in a democratic environment and they compensate the vacuum in their mind with illogical yet powerful rants! Don't underestimate the danger of the voices from the underground. Philosophy Notes from underground water Dostoyevsky masterfully depicts the scary profile of a lost person overlooked and ridiculed for his deficiencies yet with enough anger in his heart to lash out seemingly randomly and spontaneously. Fyodor dostoevsky notes from underground pdf Give those misfits a place at the table and they won't have to shout from the underground they won't have to insult women they won't have to engage in meaningless yet deadly duels to save their face. Fyodor dostoevsky notes from underground pdf he was a funny fellow entirely self-absorbed smart and well-read and amusingly melodramatic in his comments about the world and his life; he wore his pathos blatantly like some kind of robe or badge or shield. Notes from underground hardback the place had a goaty smell and a musty one too smelling like dust and old food and socks and sweat and semen (I keep my windows wide open all the time to avoid those scents). Notes from Underground psychology degree he talked about how low he was but that at least he recognized what he was unlike everyone else how he was such a worm an insect really that's how he described himself his life so meaningless and his job so mundane and the only things he gained pleasure from were books people were nothing to him he was nothing to himself. Book review notes from underground at one point I asked him: but what do you do with your time besides reading? he sneered and said not a lot he's online a lot he likes the anonymity the ability to speak his mind and tell people exactly what he thinks about them and their world views and their fake happiness and their stupid families and their stupid beliefs and opinions and their stupid way of ignoring how shitty everything really is they live their fake lives just pretending they are happy how we are all divorced from life we are all cripples every one of us more or less we are so divorced from it that we immediately feel a sort of loathing for actual real life and so cannot even stand to be reminded of it at least he knows the real score at least he knows how the world works even as he rejects it. Notes from Underground psychology chapter 1 he also had an enviable collection of porn on his laptop and we enjoyed that for a while doing more lines and laughing about all of the stupid whores in the world and weren't they just pathetic and wasn't everyone just pathetic. Notes from Underground psychology online LOL what a night!7 of 16 in Sixteen Short Novels Fiction Psychology Philosophy As I burrowed anxiously into Fyodor Dostoevsky's underground rant when I was eighteen I was suddenly mushrooming in stature far beyond my pay scale. Notes from underground online But you know what?If you pay that price as fully consciously and in the same way as you once thought you saw great men's thoughts echoing your own you may in fact pay it as a Conscious Sacrifice to a Greater Being. Notes from underground hardback An excuse for him to reach out to pass the only available candle to ALL of us under-grounders:Who have spent too long in the dark not to reach out ourselves - for the first glimmer of light in our grim lives -The Light of true Being. Psychology Notes from underground water Fiction Psychology Psychology Philosophy (Book 871 from 1001 books) - Записки из подполья = Zapiski iz podpol'ia = Letters from the Underworld = Notes from the Underground = Notes from Underground Fyodor DostoevskyNotes from Underground is an 1864 novella by Fyodor Dostoevsky. Notes from underground pdf download The first part of the story is told in monologue form or the underground man's diary and attacks emerging Western philosophy especially Nikolay Chernyshevsky's What Is to Be Done? The second part of the book is called Apropos of the Wet Snow and describes certain events that appear to be destroying and sometimes renewing the underground man who acts as a first person Psychology Philosophy Notes from Underground by Fyodor DostoyevskyIn this book Dostoyevsky described the inner worlds of a man who did not find a place for himself in society, Books like notes from underground  أيتها
